THE FOOL HARDINESS OF SLAVERY.—The present condition of things in Kansas is such as to excite serious apprehensions in the minds of many as to the ultimate effect which may be produced upon the stability of the Union; although we apprehend that the worst effects will be upon slavery itself. The spectacle is there presented of a deliberate and reckless attempt, thus far successful, of subjugating every principle of law, of justice, and of right, by armed bands and secret associations of ruffians, to the possession of the territory by force, for the exclusive use and behoof of slavery. To accomplish this, it is boldly declared by Ex-Senator Atchison of Missouri and Gen. Stringfellow, his worthy confederate in the leadership of his force, that every abolitionist, i. e., every man who is in favor of making Kansas a free State, shall be driven from the territory—and that no more northern men, with the love of freedom in their bosoms, shall come there. As one means of carrying these intentions into effect, these ruffians have made use of what they call a "Self-defensive Association," whose members charge themselves with the "duty" of lynching persons who may be suspected of being "sympathetic" against slavery. Among the doings of this Association, the following are a specimen:

Thomas A. Minard, formerly a sheriff in the State of Iowa, was seized, bound, and arraigned before this tribunal, some months ago. Upon being questioned, he stated that he had said repeatedly that he hoped to see Kansas a free territory and a free State, that he believed that it would be for the best interests of the country that it should be so.

He was solemnly pronounced an abolitionist, and was sentenced to receive forty eight lashes, unless at the end of forty eight hours he was found missing from the State of Missouri. He chose to take the latter course, and fled his friends, armed himself, and openly defied them. He I are among them yet, and the sentence has not been carried out, because he happens to have strong personal friends able to protect him.

Mr. Osborne was tried, and convicted upon the testimony of a slave—testimony no admissible in any southern court—of the offence of offering to write a pass or permit for a slave, showing that the slave was about his regular business in travelling from place to place. He was imprisoned three days and had his head shaved.

In addition to these, we have the recent statement of Mr. Parker the Parkville summary, that this Association intends to destroy all the free-soil presses in Kansas and Missouri, batter down the Lawrence Hotel with cannon, &c., which statement is undoubtedly worth of credit, some no withstanding the New York Herald and other northern pro-slavery papers call it a "hug-a-boo story."

In regard to the action of this Association, Mr. Parker says

When a man is proscribed, they act in concert to destroy his business and character; and the poor man is ruined without knowing the cause. All northern men are proscribed and ruined in their business and character, or driven out of the country, who do not club-tube to their most ultra doctrines. In this manner, whole communities are overawed. No man said to me in Parkville, 'Emigrants were here now that they were in France in the days of Robespierre;' others said that this was the first time they were afraid to avow the real sentiments. No one knew when his business would be destroyed, or he be ordered out of the country. In this way citizens are paralyzed and subdued. Emissaries have been through the south to organize these Associations.

The mere commission of a few lawless acts by are possible ruffians, in a thinly settled border territory, would not give cause for serious alarm, but in this case the bullies acted with the sanction of a person, no less than an Ex-Senator of the United States, and one who has filled the high station of President of that great body, and his acts and intentions are duly aided by a large portion of the south ern people and evident the result of a deliberately concerted plan to prevent the emigration of free-soil men to a territory which neither other people were led to believe was to be settled and its institutions determined by the men at armed travelers of free popular sovereignty.

The sons of the slaveholders in regard to this territory, and the entire subservience of the National Administration to do anything in the way of vindicating law and order there have, however, aroused a feeling in the north scarcely less intense than that created by the attempt of repealing the Missouri Compromise—and these things may hasten a crisis in the contest between freedom and slavery. They will at all events, strengthen and deepen the determination to refuse admission to slave States thus unfortunately formed; and must further weaken the northern support which slavery has hitherto received, and by the aid of which it has been enabled to greatly to extend its limits.

Candidates for the Presidency are rapidly multiplying. The Washington Sentinel nominates Tee Breeck of New Orleans, age not George Law. He owns the Metairie Race Course and the race horse Lexington, and is therefore expected to run well.

The Galaxy Hotel and stable adjoining, owned by the Messrs. Stephens, were entirely destroyed by fire on Monday night. We do not know the amount of the loss, but learn that the property was insured for $2500.

A house and stable at West's Mills, Industry, owned by Dr. Russell, and occupied by James Cass, was consumed by fire on the night of April 24th.

LAYTON JAMS IN BOSTON.—H. D. Parker, Faran Stevens, Lewis Rice, and other well-known hot 1 keepers in Boston, were brought before the Police Court in that city on Friday, for violation of the liquor law. But the cases were all postponed for a few days. The most eminent lawyers in Boston have been retained to conduct the cases in every stage.

RUSSIA AND RUSSIA. The well-informed Paris correspondent of the National Intelligencer, taking notice of the fact that the French semi-official writers continue to insist that Austria is on the eve of declaring war on the Czar, says: "See nothing to justify this belief, but on the contrary, much mitigation against such a resort. Prussia, it is said, is preparing, with many of the secondary German states, an offensive and defensive treaty establishing an armed neutrality. Sweden and Denmark will, it is well-nigh, accede to such a treaty. In the presence of such a treaty, Austria, even if she should wage war would be compelled to leave her sword in its scabbard.

MEDIATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—The Washington correspondent of the Buffalo Daily Republic, in a letter to that journal, states that the mediation of this government has been offered to the belligerent powers of Europe, and that two of the Commissioners have gone forward. The writer states that—

"Previous to the adjournment of Congress the Senate held an Executive session, during which the matter was discussed at considerable length, and the President finally advised, if in his judgment the proper time should arrive during the vacation of Congress, to offer the proposed mediation, and request the gentlemen above named to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to London, Paris or Vienna at short notice in the meantime he gave responsibility—In pursuance of this arrangement, Mr. Van Buren, who had previously been informed in a private manner, repaired to London in order to be in readiness to meet his colleagues, and on his passage thither, while resting a few hours in Paris was unceremoniously called into the presence of Louis Napoleon, in his travelling dress, and a long conversation had upon a subject of very great importance, the particulars of which have not transpired.

On the breaking up of the Vienna Conference, which shattered the last hopes of the peace party, Mr. Fillmore very suddenly took a departure for Europe, and it is understood to be Mr. Tyler's intention to leave in the next steamship for the same destination. Now, these private movements are very significant facts, which can be only accounted for upon any other hypothesis. It is understood that the Emperor Nicholas, previous to his death, in view of the successful defence of Sebastopol, had become adverse to the project, deeming the task much easier than as about within his grasp, but Alexander is not so sanguine on this point, and is quite willing to adopt the proposed method of settling the difficulty. The Court of St James is very much in favor of it, and so anxious are Lord Palmerston Minerty to see it put before the popular indignation taken the form of resolution in England, that strong hints have been given by the Hillbusters, and partially confirmed by the London Times, that no further notice will be taken of any Cuban demonstration which may hereafter be made, in case the said commissioners should succeed in bringing about a firm peace. In fact, it is said that both England and France will use their influence with Spain, for the transfer of Cuba by purchase, to the United States, for a reasonable consideration."

The writer states that he has no doubt but that the semi-official journals will deny it toto at it has said, but assures his readers that he tells but the positive truth.

Mrs. Webb, the colored lady, who has been named the "Black Siddons," is to give some of her dramatic readings at the City Hall in this city, on this evening, and Tuesday evening.

The State of Maine thus speaks of her readings in Portland:

Much as we anticipated from the encomiums elsewhere bestowed upon Mrs. Webb, we confess we were agreeably disappointed in her readings last evening. Her selections were so varied as to require great versatility of voice and manner; and she was excellent in all. She has a voice of uncommon sweetness and richness, and admirably sustained all the parts she undertook. She is a person of uncommon talent, and it is as such that she deserves, and we hope will receive, the reward due to her genius.

We are permitted to extract the following from a private letter to a gentleman in this city, from Rev. Mr. Stebbins, of Portland, the colleague of Rev. Dr. Nichols:

"Mrs Webb has been reading for two evenings before the public, to the great admiration of everybody. She has made a very strong impression upon me. She is certainly a remarkable person in many respects: womanly, modest and refined."

SLIGHT MS. The following, which some wag sent from Augusta to Boston, and which the Boston Journal publishes as a telegraphic dispatch, is decided by of the Mung order. There has been no such meeting here, and there is no such man as Augusta, or in the State, as Hon Samuel C. Gage:

MEANS KNOW-NOTHING STATE CONVENTION Augusta, May 21, 1855—Sir Editor: The Grand Council of Know-Nothings for this State met in Bangor yesterday. About 1000 delegates were present, and after a stormy discussion, on several ballotings, Hon. Samuel C. Gage, of Augusta, received the nomination for Governor. Mr. Gage is but little known in the State, but has held several important offices at Augusta, and is much respected there for his private worth.

After his nomination, many of Mr. Morrill's friends left the order in disgust, and will never return. A breach has been made in the order which will never be closed. NOT A K. N.

The Journal has simply been sold in this matter, and pretty badly, too. There has been no K. N. convention held in this city as yet, although it is said there is to be one to-morrow.

VIRGINIA ELECTION.—Returns from 33 counties show a gain for Flournoy, K. N., as compared with Gen. Scott's vote in 1852, (when the majority against him in the whole State was 15,281) of 4300. There are 137 counties in Virginia—and upwards of 60 to be heard from. The returns thus far are imperfect, but seem to indicate that Flournoy has given Wise, the administration candidate, a close run, and perhaps has actually beaten him.

An extra freight locomotive, weighing 18 tons, named the "Star Hotel," has been purchased of the Old Colony Railroad Company for the Bangor, Oldtown and Milford Railroad and arrived in this city on Saturday. It required a team of 28 horses to move the engine from where it was discharged.

John L. Chapman, who has been on trial at East Cambridge for the murder of Reuben Cozzens, was convicted, on Saturday, the jury being out 60 minutes.

We are indebted to the Pacific Express Company, W. H. Hall, Agent at New York, for a supply of California papers, per Hodgman, Carr & Co's Express.

We have one or two communications, for which we cannot make room in this paper.

Varieties.

Lobsters. It is estimated that there are annually consumed in and about Boston, about 700,000 lobsters. About 500,000 of them come from the State of Maine, and the remaining 200,000 are taken from Massachusetts Bay. About 700 men are engaged in taking the fish, and some 800 tons of shipping.

The cost of bread has been reduced by several bakers in Paris, by mixing one part of rice to five of wheat flour. Neither the nutriment nor the taste of the bread is injured, and the cost of the two pound loaf is diminished one sou.

A boy having extraordinary name, from Houston, Texas, a few days since. The swamp was passing over a train of cotton wagons, when they became confused by the noise and descended, chousing as a settling place the hat of a wagoner, on which they piled up after the style of an old fashioned grandfather's beaver hat. The hat was then removed to a wagon and conveyed six or eight miles, and the boys securely hived.

Easily Accounted for. A Dublin (Ireland) paper, speaking of the state of finance of the Earl of Carlisle into that city, says:

"The reception was not very warm—for were the streets lined." The mere fact of the streets of Dublin not being "lined" on a bleak April day will at once account for the absence of "warmth" in the reception.

The Louisville Journal, (Prentice) says of Mr Wickliffe, Ex P M G.

Mr. Wickliffe cut us an Abolitionist. The charge is not only false, but ungentlemanly. The truth is that Mr W. never had any part of a gentleman in him except when the once [illegible] off and mollified a gentleman's ear.

A cat, even if she be friendly, never approaches thee by a direct course. No more does a truth, O friend, but winding round thy stupidity, and rubbing up against thy prejudices, it reaches thee gently—and then perhaps scratches.—Lavater.

The London Leader speaks of the Emperor Napoleon as "the tenant at will" of a throne to which no ruler has died during a century.

Dobbs says he is always glad when his wife has too, because it feels so good "when it is over."

An Old Firm. The Pittsburg (Pa.) Post, has seen a letter addressed to "Adam & Eve, Nashville, Tennessee."

A gang of thieves getting book taken while their captain was absent, they were conveyed to the whipping post. Their captain meeting a runaway inquired after his comrades. "They are doing well," he answered—"every man at his post."

A Case of Distress. That of a young man attempting to put on a pair of tight kid gloves, carry a cane, and wear his usual graceful gait, as he walks along.

TRIAL OF JOHN L. CHAPMAN FOR THE MURDER OF REUBEN COZZENS.—The account trial of John L. Chapman for the murder of Reuben Cozzens on the 14th of September, 1853, commenced in the Supreme Court at E. Cambridge yesterday forenoon. Chief Justice Shaw and Associate Justices Metcalf and Bigelow are present. Chapman was tried on this charge in February, 1854, at which time the jury disagreed—standing, it is said, eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. Chapman has since that time remained in jail at E. Cambridge, and for the last four or five months has been gradually failing with consumption. At the trial to-day yesterday his appearance was very different from what it was at the time of the previous trial. Now he looks pale, careworn and feeble, and his hollow cough indicates that whatever may be the result of the trial now pending, he will before many months be summoned before another and a higher tribunal, whose dicta are a righteous and just.

Chapman was attended in Court this morning by his younger brother and by his sister, whose devotion and unremitting attention to him during his former trial drew from all who were present feelings of the deepest sympathy with her in her sorrow.

Further Foreign Items by the America.

It is stated to be the intention of the Allied Powers to embark an immense, once immediately for the Crimea; such a movement as is considered necessary by persons well acquainted with military affairs. It is understood the expedition will comprise about 50,000 men—cavalry, artillery and infantry—and that its destination will be some place near the isthmus of Perekop, in order to cooperate with the Allied army before Sebastopol, by checking the advance, or, in the event of the Russians being carried, by cutting off the retreat of the Russians.

Immediately upon receipt of news from the Crimea that the fire before Sebastopol was suspended, the French government sent orders to Marseilles for the embarkation of a new siege train, consisting of nearly 300 heavy guns. So says the London Shipping Gazette.

It is stated that the Emperor has expressed his strong disapproval of the disposition which has represented at the Vienna Conference intended to accept dishonorable and delusive terms of peace from Russia, and that he condemned Mr de Hulst's too great confidence in the good faith of Austria.

I build the ship I carry possess an general but little can be expected of it, notwithstanding its reinforcement of troops. On this very subject Napoleon thus expressed himself: "The presence of the general is indispensable; he is the head—the whole army, indeed. It was no the Roman army that subdued Gaul, but Cæsar; it was not the Carthaginian army that made the republic tremble at the gates of Rome, but Hannibal; it was not the Macedonian army on the Indus, it was Alexander; it was not the French army that carried war to the Weser and the Inn, but Turenne; it was not Prussia that defended herself for seven years against the greatest powers of Europe, it was Frederick." (Memoirs of Napoleon.) To which we may add it was not the French who won Marengo, Austerlitz, Friedland, Wagram, &c., but Napoleon.—Boston Courier.

MONETARY AFFAIRS.—Boston, May 25th.—Money continues in good supply, and the demand is growing less and less every day.—Stocks and bonds are slowly advancing in market value, and holders are growing more tenacious of their securities. At the second board Maine closed at $100, Worcester at 93½, Western at 92½, Vermont and Canada at $70, Old Colony at $81, Fitchburg at $80, Eastern at $50, and Vermont and Massachusetts at $115 asked and $113 bid, very little stock being offered or sale.

The California steamer yesterday brought to New York over 800 passengers, and it is supposed that the amount of gold in her hands, together with the $1,300,000 on freight, will swell the aggregate to at least $2,000,000.

The commercial news from Europe is quite favorable.—Courier.

California Items.

The California Price Current of April 30 says:

The most important feature presented in business since our last, and indeed one of the most important ever exhibited since the first shipment of gold from the State, has been the sudden and very large addition to our export trade which has brought itself into notice. California has already become a producing country; not merely a producer of gold, but of corn, which in reality is much more important. Our crops are superabundant, and we are obliged to seek relief for our market in export to the farthest ends of the earth. In our last we mentioned the clearances of several vessels for Australia with produce; we have now to add long by to the list. The ship Alfred is about ready to sail with a cargo of barley, oats, wheat and flour; the Boston Light, a fine clipper of over 1100 tons, is on the berth for Melbourne, and has nearly half her cargo (about the same as that of the Alfred) engaged; the Comet has cleared for New York, with hides, horns, rags, wool, hardware, quicksilver, &c; the Charmer will clear this week for the same port with a full cargo of wheat, flour and quicksilver; the Telegraph has been laid on for the same port to load grain and flour, and has half her capacity engaged.

The discussions respecting the division of the State continued. The Sonora Herald, a Democratic journal, says:

The divisionists had better not agitate this question at the present time, or worse than they will be overwhelmed with defeat. The new State of Colorado, which has done good to create by this bill, would be no State at all, not having the requisite population. This is well known to the fathers of the scheme. The design, then, must be in cutting it loose from our state, to set it up on its own back as a territory. And then what would follow? A beautiful opening to colonize it with slaves, and the consequent renewal of slavery agitation.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—The Legislature convened on the 17th of April. The King's speech was delivered in both the Hawaiian and English languages. The following paragraph from it is significant of something yet to be developed—probably in connection with the subject of annexation:

I have committed an important mission to the Honorable William L. Lee, Chancellor of the Kingdom and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and have accredited him as my Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, from which mission I anticipate important results for the benefit of you all, which will be made known to you hereafter.

EXTENSIVE FRAUDS.—Within the past few days considerable excitement has been produced in Honolulu by the discovery that a large amount of forged Whaler Bills had been dispersed of by Mr Swan, of the firm of Swan & Clifford, ship chandlers of Honolulu, one of which has come back protested.

Immediately upon this being known, every body who had bought such bills of Swan & Clifford became alarmed, and a meeting was called to look into the matter. At the meeting held subsequently, it has come out that some $[illegible],000 of this forged paper has been sold here by Swan, and there may be more not yet discovered.

Both the members of the firm had left the Islands previous to these developments; Mr Clifford in the brig Leverett, on a trading voyage to Japan, &c., and Mr. Swan in the bark George, nominally on a whaling voyage, but with general outfit for trading.

DEATH OF AN EDITOR.—Hon Henry Chubb, long proprietor of the New Brunswick Courier, died in St. John on the 21st inst. Mr. Chubb was at one time Mayor of St. John.

Several persons were committed to the watch house yesterday, for fast driving and other causes.

Irving House.

This popular and well known establishment has recently undergone thorough alterations to meet the present change now occurring in the hotel system. It will re open on MONDAY, May 21, on the European and American Plan, combined, with the same elegant Dining-Rooms as heretofore, with Table d'Hote in Ladies' Ordinary, which will be thrown open to the public from Chambers-st and Broadway on ranges. It is expected the Hotel will meet with the usual favor from the public, also from families and permanent boarders—as every attention will be paid to guests at moderate charges. The Irving House has been new furnished and painted throughout, with various improvements added. The whole is to be conducted by Mr WILLIAM H. BURROUGHS, who is well known for his skill and gentlemanly deportment, which of itself is a guarantee for its future success. or External Ears, for the Deaf.
THIS instrument is designed to apply a strong vibrating power by means of metal plates, adapted to a high degree of sensitiveness, by means of which, and its gradual passage through a diminishing tube passing in the ear, sound is situated on organs dull or indifferent to the sense of hearing. The material of which they are composed is so adapted to the purpose as hardly to be felt when worn, filling the head with great exactness, but varying in size for different degrees of deafness. When worn by ladies they can be effectually concealed from observation. With regard to the above we will say that so far as we have been able to judge they are of great value. For sale by G. F. THE WIDOW,

Or the Old Jew Broker's Secret.

A CURIOUS STORY.

He looked like an old clothesman, but he was a broker—a broker with a bad character, for what that must have been, when taxed to the utmost, we leave to imagination and experience. He was reputed the hardest man in the trade, and as most of that trade are people who have lived to be mere electrical machines, with all feeling, not hearts, a supremacy of wealth to unite, not hearts, a supremacy of wealth to unite, have left him a fearful caricature. He was a withered old man now, bent double with age and rheumatism, with a pair of light brown eyes, red round the rims, and a strange mixture of surliness and timidity. He looked a rose but seven years ago, though he was, in character, the same old miser. No one had a kind word for him. The policeman at the corner of his street was something quaint in his kindness, and would stop an honest glass like the red and yellow Barber's Pole down his throat sometimes, for old times' sake. If a distress was to be levied upon, and his neighbourhood was to be alarmed by old Joe Mappin, he prayed the magistrate, and his neighbourhood knew of his misfortune. No one woman and child of Israel, one of Hombim as Sam, was not fond of old Joe Mappin. The very children doubt, or said he, Israel edified the same respect with their fathers, and were imputed and taught to call him an honest little one. He was the middle man. But to the little ones he was the middle man. But to the little ones he was the middle man. But to the little ones he was the middle man. Joe Mappin" stood in Israel. He was the curious small fry. He was the black man of more

[illegible] had a secret. Some thought he was a miser, and others that he had money, and went to look at the body of a dead man, and that he had a [illegible] upon his garret, on straw. But [illegible] what they thought, exceeding [illegible] was a secret commonly [illegible] belonged to him, a disgrace he could have nothing but villainy, said the inspector to Policeman X.

[illegible] article of his having a secret [illegible] was because wearing after evening, he was seen stealing in the dusk from his garret [illegible] Bond, towards the West End. No [illegible] had set out to follow him, but [illegible] always contrived to escape, [illegible] the streets in such a [illegible] unexpected manner, that however it [illegible] invariably got away. All sorts of [illegible] were made to track him, but in vain. [illegible] of them, and the broker's secret [illegible] still. Little Teddy, his landlord's [illegible] the secret in the discovery, but he [illegible] at last somewhere in the New Road [illegible] Park, though that was a good [illegible] taken, too. Moreover it was [illegible] Joe was described seated beneath his habitual bank—a thing no one else would wear; [illegible] that time the report had got about [illegible] was a love affair with some mysterious [illegible], and that Joe was having a wife with [illegible] for he had a California "worth," said [illegible] a little boy, Teddy.

[illegible] coming for set out, as usual, with his [illegible] cloak and battered old hat, but well [illegible] underneath. He walked cautiously at [illegible] as was natural to him now, with [illegible] so bad, but after he had passed [illegible] a particular quarter, turning round [illegible] to cough, but in reality to see [illegible] Having, he walked briskly on, [illegible] through all sorts of queer alleys and [illegible] winding and doubling like a fox; [illegible] together in London could not have [illegible] At last he came to a very respectable [illegible] Regent's Park—a house evidently inhabited by a gentleman of fortune [illegible] furniture, for all the appointments were [illegible] keeping, and there was such a [illegible] about it as could only [illegible] questions. The broker [illegible] at the window as he came hence [illegible] girls about fourteen or fifteen—[illegible] and slight of her age—leaning out [illegible] among the green [illegible], crying, in answer [illegible]

"[illegible] like you are to right."

"But were not [illegible] the old man, until [illegible] "[illegible] exchange [illegible] [illegible] Joe." He nodded to her affectionately, carefully scraping his [illegible] with the [illegible]—with hair of a dark [illegible] he would be welcome. He took [illegible] and put them away in a [illegible], and then, clean and respectable [illegible] set up stairs to the dressing [illegible]

[illegible] beautiful and still young—young [illegible] the mother of a child of fifteen—[illegible] surrounding [illegible] every luxury and every beauty—nested in [illegible] like a bird in a golden cage [illegible] the choice which had the own [illegible] as cruel as that lady and [illegible] broker, yet they were so [illegible] that they were even friends, for she [illegible] entered, and advanced towards him [illegible] and shook hands with him, and drew [illegible] the best easy chair for him, and petted [illegible] woman caprice, without any [illegible] [illegible] that Joe seemed to wish [illegible] and watch her as she bent [illegible] and again that she was concerned and [illegible]

"[illegible] you may be sure of [illegible] Miss Margaret's mother?"

"Nothing, Joe, nothing," said the sweet lady, looked up at [illegible] had spoken [illegible] a letter.

"That's enough—that's all I want, mutter[illegible] Joe, and then he went back into old [illegible] of his quiet meditation, watching the lady's face, and every now and then glancing round the room, as if to see that all was right and to find out where he could alter and improve it.

After this had gone on for a short time Joe Mappin asked the Margaret in an uncouth way, [illegible] a fitful laugh unstilled partly mesmerized. The lady sang, she bell, and Margaret came. It seemed to be the usual way in which [illegible] was called when the broker was there for she came at once, without giving the servant time to call her.

"[illegible] the most unaffected [illegible] the real love for the old man, running to [illegible] and taking his hand, calling him "Dear Joe," and [illegible] present in.

And there nothing that he little lady was [illegible] and Joe, putting her hand, and seemingly [illegible] curls. "Has she flowers and [illegible] new, lady?" for you know she has a [illegible] to look and have."

"Why, Joe, I don't wear such a frock to a party," said Margaret, laughing; and it was only last Tuesday I had that beauty, though I didn't get half worth her blue silk."

Joe Mappin drew her between his knees, and held her face in his hands. "Silver and gold both, isn't good enough for you!" he said with almost a passion of fervor in his voice; "never aunt yourself or fear of me."

But they both said again that they had all they could require, even if they were princesses in a fairy tower. Margaret added; and by her insistance had been repeated to almost a wearisome number of times, Joe Mappin was silent, and so relapsed into silence again—and there he sat, till the last rays of the sun had gone, and candles had been brought—by [illegible] the time was, you may be sure—a peculiar expression of tenderness on his [illegible] face, as he was reading a sweet chapter [illegible] listening to the noble song admiringly. And then when it was quite dark outside he went away, muffled up in his grandfather's old cloak, as he had come, and hobbling rheumatically when he came near the cross streets.

This then, was the broker's secret, and this was its history.

About fifteen years ago, Joe Mappin, almost an old man even then, was called to assist the goods of a Captain Thornton living at the West End. The captain was one of those gay, reckless, lovable men, who by dint of sheer animal magnetism lived for years on credit, and are only brought to account when it becomes a matter of life and death to some of the poorer creditors—those creditors as sorry for their debtor as if it were themselves going to the Queen's Bench, and accusing themselves bitterly—the tender-hearted, at least for the trouble they are bringing on him. Joe Mappin, the hardest of those of the profession, the tender-hearted, grasping broker, who was believed not to have a single human feeling, felt he was touched by the gallant frankness and gracious manner of his victim, and as for the wife—that noble, patient, glorious woman, with her little one in her arms—something rose up in his heart for her which he had never felt in his life before. It was an infinite yearning worship, such as he had read of in the novels of the library he had rented, but which he had always thought a brain, and the mere mouthings of author fools. He felt now for the first time, that there was such a thing in the human heart as Love—the love of beauty, the love of virtue, love for pity's sake.

Captain Thornton was carried off to the Queen's Bench and after a short term of imprisonment, died suddenly of spotted fever. He had lived too freely, and taken too little exercise, and being one of those fine high-strung of sanguine temperaments, who require abstinence and work, who live luxuriously and idlenes, he had met the fate any medical man would have predicted. His wife and child were thus left alone in the world, friendless. The broker never lost sight of them. Gifts from an unknown hand, money, clothing, and even food, had kept Mrs. Thornton from want—and the more welcome, as by her marriage she had displeased her relatives, who were perhaps not sure of this excuse to avoid maintaining her. When the Captain died, then old Joe Mappin came forward openly. He told her how he had loved an John Little for, without pay, and without love; he told her how she had roused feelings in him—feelings of reverence for humanity, such as he had never known before; and the old man bowed himself before her as to a superior being, and besought of her the privilege of maintaining her and her child—He wanted no thing, he said, but to know they were happy, and sometimes to hear them say so. He had not a friend in the world to whom he could leave his money—not one that they would wrong by taking it; he had hoarded, because it was his, as one to hoard. But he never knew for what end he saved. Now he had saved for Heaven, if she would accept her life on these easy terms. They were not hard; and if she objected to his going to see her he would not. Indeed, indeed, it was her happiness, and that sweet baby's—not his own—he cared for, in the offer I.

What could she do, that gentlewoman without friends or fortune, or the means of obtaining her own subsistance? What could she do, but look at her child, hold out her hands to that strange old man, and burst into tears of gratitude, shame and sorrow, all mixed up together, as she faltered out, "Yes," and took her fate from his hands? She understood the truth of his feelings, and was herself too truthful and too noble to assume a false dignity which would have been less dignified than the acceptance of his generosity. She thanked him by her tears, and she kissed his withered hands, and that touch bound old Joe Mappin as her slave for life; the first, last, and only time that ever woman's lips ever touched him. And in this manner their lives had passed for the last fifteen years.

He took a beautiful little house for the widow and her child, and furnished it with every luxury and beauty possible. All that came in his way—dress jewelry, furniture, ornaments—whatever it might be the rare and expensive, he bought, for them. He lavished his money like water, and thought nothing dear which would call forth a smile from the woman, or a joyous exclamation from the child. Their pleasure repaid him for everything, it was his world, his heaven, his life.

But this time was coming fast now, when old Joe Mappin, the broker must take the boundary lines between time and eternity, and learn the great secret. When the winter had killed Margaret's flowers, had stripped her evergreens of their leaves, and had frozen the songs of her birds, the Mammon and Death stood face to face. His rheumatism and asthma had been very bad for a long time, and living in his huddled and neglected way, he had not given himself the best chance of recovery. He knew he was dying, but he could hold on in peace, without looking once more on those two faces he had loved so much—the only two he had ever loved through the whole of his long life. They could not come to him, for they did not know his address, nor even his surname. He was only Joe, in the beautiful house in Regent's Park, and the servants thought he was "Massa's queer old uncle—perhaps from Iggy or furren parts." But if they could not come to him he could go to them—and must—whatever the risk. He could not die happily—he believed he could not pass away at all—without seeing them once more.

Though his end at death was strongly on his soul, the old man resolved to make this long and serious journey. He knew he should perish in the supreme attempt, but it would be better even so than to die sadly. He had done all he could for; he had established in the dear ones, and his death would not deprive them now of a farthing, of a single comfort. He had saved enough, let him die! He went for a neighbor to dress him for the last time in his decent clothes, and when this was done—between fainting and long fits of pain—he told her to go for a cab, and "bargain with the man" for his fare up to Regent's Park. Because he was old and weak, he wouldn't be done even by the biggest ruffian among them," he growled out.

When the woman left the room, old Joe dragged himself as he best now to a small or safe he had let into the wall with his own hands. No one knew, it was there—not even the landlord, nor those prying eyes of little Teddy.—He unlocked it, and took out a roll of bank notes, railway script, and mortgage bonds, and tied them all in a cotton handkerchief, together with a parchment tied with red tape, sealed with a big seal, "and endorsed, "Joe Mappin's will," in his own handwriting. He tied the bundle under his greasy old cloak, and then the woman came back, and found him panting and pale, and she screamed out that he was dying. But he swore at her, between each gasp, and told her to hold her noise, and to help him down stairs. And then half stumbling and half carried, the old man got down the stairs at last, and so was put into the cab.

He gave the man his directions in an undertone, jealously guarded, the names from the crowd standing curiously about; and then he drove out of Horlborn forever. And so he left his old neighborhood, with all its associations of the miserliness and sorrow of which he had been the instrument, and the heartless cause, a change seemed to come over him. The insolent face gradually grew more soft and humanized. He was passing from the world of man, and memories late that of love and [illegible] and the evil influences of his material. He felt before the purification of the great baptism.

The journey—it was a long one for a dying man—tired him sadly. He did not care though for the pain it caused him; his only fear was he should die ere he reached his home—the home of his spirit, of his better and purer life. But he survived it—to a sad state of suffering and prostration; and only just survived it; for when, carried by the cabman in his arms as if he had been a child, he was brought into the presence of those loved ones, all that his failing life left him power to do was to place the packet in the widow's lap and murmur faintly, "It is all yours," and to die with her tears falling softly on his face.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP

For the Cure of Consumption

THE proprietor of this medicine was himself, many years ago, reduced so low as to be given up by his physicians and friends, to the last stage of Consumption. When all hope of recovering was laid aside, he was strongly recommended to try a Syrup made from an old Indian receipt, which succeeded in effectually curing him. The family physicians and a large number of responsible gentlemen certified to the facts of this case, and soon the Pulmonic Syrup obtained a reputation never equalled, in that section of the country. Creating, as this case did, a sensation second to that only of a miracle, Dr Schenck was waited upon by many notable invalids, to whom he administered the Syrup, with the same beneficial results. In fact, such was the notoriety of this medicine, that eminent physicians had their attention drawn toward the rising reputation of it, from having witnessed its curative powers, and freely extended the hand of friendship and encouragement to Dr. Schenck, and introduced the medicine to the public and used it in their daily practice

No other medicine operates upon the system in the manner that the Pulmonic Syrup does. It produces a healthy action upon the morbid parts, by purging them from disease, it promotes expectoration, allays the cough, heals the matter on the lungs, and when it is once taken, it is the opinion that the breaking up of the interior of the parts produces, and the lungs become sound and resume the performance of their natural functions. It also soothes the irritated portion of the lungs and other organs, and thus restores them to health. A consideration of the medicine possesses over all others is, that it contains no opium, calomel or any other deleterious substance.

In 1841 Dr Schenck removed from Hemington, New Jersey, to Philadelphia, and commenced the practice of his profession, where he soon acquired a reputation excelled by none, in curing disease that had pronounced to be incurable, and he has now their daily presented to the world incontestible evidence of his success

Both of his parents died with Consumption, which appears to have been an hereditary disease with his ancestors family. All his brothers and sisters except one, died early of this disease, none of them live to one brother, reaching the age of twenty

Dr Schenck, nearly the last of his family, he naturally felt the alarm, to use only all in other means to save him from the silent tomb by the fatal destroyer consumption.

VOLUNTARY TESTIMONY.

We, the undersigned subscribers, residents of Hemington, do hereby certify that we are well acquainted with Dr J. H. Schenck. He was attacked by disease, which, as we believe, terminated in Pulmonary Consumption, under the operation of which he was reduced so low as to be unable to leave his bed for a long time, and to all appearance was just ready to expire. He was perfectly well—his cough and fever gone, left him, and we feel prompted in declaring it as our belief, that these salutary effects have resulted from the use of the Pulmonic Syrup!

IMPORTANT PROCLAMATION!
A Great Mystery Explained.

In the year of our Lord 1837, at our expense and at much literal cost, we discovered that by uniting certain vegetable agents, which had never before been used as medicine, we obtained properties possessing such a marvellous quick power over PAIN, that the moment it was applied to the parts affected with pain, all uneasiness ceased. The most agonizing pangs were taken from the constant, and the most violent spasms and contractions were soothed, and the system restored to perfect ease in a few minutes

In 1849 we introduced this Remedy to the world under the name of

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

It has been used by hundreds of thousands throughout the United States, proving instantaneous to all troubled with Pain or Sickness

One application externally, or a few drops taken internally, will instantly free the sufferer from the most violent and terrible pains, and to render the weak, feeble, and prostrated frame to strength and vigor.

No person has ever used RADWAY'S READY RELIEF without declaring some several benefit to be less than fifteen minutes after use

Let those who are now suffering any severe pain give it a trial, for in fifteen minutes they will enjoy ease and comfort

was the first and is the only remedy ever discovered that will stop the most fearful pains in a few seconds, and free the system from Rheumatic, Neuralgic, Nervous, and Spasmodic Disorders in a few hours. It will cure and protect the system against sudden attacks of

CHOLERA,	DYSENTERY,
DIARRHŒA,	BOWEL MORBUS,
BILIOUS COLIC,	LIVER AND AGUE,
PNEUMONIA,	INFLUENZA

Bear in mind, it is a powerful Disinfectant, and acted, diffusive stimulant, nervine, and antispasmodic, and counter irritant

The R. R. R. REMEDIES are medical discoveries of the present century. They are prepared on an entire new and original plan, and are far more powerful, instantly, and protect the human system against sickness or any sudden attacks. The desire required to be taken is one small teaspoonful. A few drops of READY RELIEF exercise a powerful influence over disease and pain

IT HAS CURED

Inflammation in four hours,
Neuralgia in one hour,
Cramp in ten minutes,
Diarrhœa in fifteen minutes,
Toothache in one minute,
Spasm in five minutes,
Sick Headache in fifteen minutes,
Chill Fever in fifteen minutes,
Chilblains in five minutes,
Sore Throat in two minutes,
Influenza in one hour

AYER'S

CATHARTIC PILLS

OPERATE by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood, and stimulate into healthy action. They remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, and, by restoring their irregular action to health, correct, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first causes of disease. An extensive trial of their virtues, by Professors, Physicians, and Patients, has shown cures of dangerous diseases almost beyond belief, were they not sustained by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the supposition of untruth. Their certificates are published in my American Almanac, which the Agents below named are pleased to furnish free to all inquirers

Annexed we give Directions for their use in the complaints which they have been found to cure.

FOR COSTIVENESS.—Take one or two Pills, or such quantity as to gently move the bowels. Costiveness is frequently the aggravating cause of Piles, and the cure of one complaint is the cure of both. No person can feel well while under a costive habit of body. Hence it should be, and it can be, promptly relieved.

FOR DYSPEPSIA, which is some times the cause of Costiveness, and always uncomfortable, take mild doses—from one to four—to stimulate the stomach and liver into healthy action. They will do it, and the heartburn, headache, and sombre out of dyspepsia will rapidly disappear. When it has gone, don't forget what cured you.

For a FOUL STOMACH, or Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, which produces general depression of the spirits and bad health, take from four to eight Pills at first, and smaller doses afterwards, until activity and strength is restored to the system.

FOR NERVOUSNESS, SICK HEADACHE, NAUSEA, Pain in the Stomach, Back, or Side take from four to eight pills on going to bed. If they do not operate sufficiently, take more the next day until they do. These complaints will be swept out from the system. Don't wear these and their kindred disorders because your stomach is foul

FOR SCROFULA, ERYSIPELAS, and all Diseases of the Skin, take the Pills freely and frequently, to keep the bowels open. The eruptions will generally soon begin to diminish and disappear. Many dreadful ulcers and sores have been healed up by the purging and purifying effect of these Pills, and some disgusting diseases which seemed to saturate the whole system have completely yielded to their influence. Keeping the surface in perfect health. Patients, your duty to yourselves demands that you should parade yourself around the world covered with pimples, blotches, ulcers, sores, and all or any of the unclean diseases of the skin, because your system wants cleansing.

To PURIFY THE BLOOD, they are the best medicine ever discovered. They should be taken freely and frequently, and the impurities which now the seeds of incurable diseases will be swept out of the system like chaff before the wind. By this purgative they do as much good in preventing sickness as by the remarkable cures which they are making every where LIVER COMPLAINT, JAUNDICE, and all Bilious Affections arise from some derangement—either torpidity, congestion, or obstructions of the Liver. Torpidity and congestion vitiate the bile and render it unfit for digestion. This is disastrous to the health, and the constitution is frequently undermined by no other cause. Indigestion is the symptom. Obstruction of the duct which conveys the bile into the stomach causes the bile to overflow into the blood. This produces Jaundice, with a long and dangerous train of evils. Costiveness, or alternately costiveness and diarrhœa, prevails. Feverish symptoms, languor, low spirits, weariness, restlessness, and melancholy, with sometimes inability to sleep, and sometimes great drowsiness, sometimes there is severe pain in the side, the skin and the white of the eyes become a greenish yellow; the stomach sends the bowels sore to the touch, the whole system irritable, with a tendency to fever, which may turn to bilious fever, bilious colic, bilious diarrhœa, dysentery, &c. A medium dose of three or four Pills taken at night, followed by two or three in the morning, and repeated a few days, will remove the cause of all these troubles. It would be to suffer such pains when you can cure them for 25 cents.

RHEUMATISM, GOUT, and all Inflammatory Fevers are rapidly cured by the purifying effects of these Pills upon the blood and the stimulus which they afford to the vital principle of Life. For these and all kindred complaints they should be taken in mild doses, to move the bowels gently, but freely.

As a DINNER PILL, this is both agreeable and useful. No Pill can be made more pleasant to take, and certainly none has been made more effectual to the purpose for which a dinner pill is employed.

TESTIMONY FROM MAINE

Cape Elizabeth, Portland, Maine, July 16, 1853, says, "I was taken sick one year ago last April, upon my passage from Havana to Charleston, S. C. At the latter place I took medicine and procured a physician, but for ten days could obtain no relief, no sleep or appetite. At last I chancing up a newspaper containing your advertisement of "Hoofland's German Bitters," I resolved to try them immediately. This was about 10 o'clock, at 11 o'clock I took the first dose, and another at 6 o'clock. The effect was so rapid on me that I had a good appetite for supper, and rested well that night, and the next day found me a well man—I have not been without your medicine since having been in my family between Baltimore, Charleston, and the West India Islands ever since. I have now given up going to sea and reside in this place, where you should have an agency, as you could sell large quantities of it."

Jos. S. Hall & Co., Presque Isle, Aroostook Co., Maine, April 28, 1854, say "We have with send you a certificate of a cure performed by the use of only one bottle of the German Bitters. We think Mr Clark to be a man of veracity, and have no doubt of the truth of his story."

Messrs. Jos. S. Hall & Co.—Gentlemen—If answer to your inquiries I will state that my daughter, aged about 16 years, has been complaining of a pain in her side for six or seven years, and about the first of January last was taken down and confined to her bed. The pain in her side was very severe, besides being troubled with pains between her shoulders and in her breast. From reading a number of cures performed by "Hoofland's German Bitters," I was induced to try them in her case, and sent to your store and purchased one bottle. She had taken it but a few days when she began to improve, and now, after taking only one bottle, she is enjoying better health than she has for years. She feels no pain in her side or in any part of her body, and attributes her cure entirely to the German Bitters. WILLIAM CLARK,
Salmon Brook, Aroostook Co., Me

You should bear in mind that these Bitters are entirely vegetable, thereby possessing advantages over many of the preparations recommended for similar diseases
